DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Blish, II (USP 5,914,873) in view of Hu (USP 5,938,769). Blish describes an array of voltage regulators (220a-220n) connected in parallel, and a having a first voltage regulator that accepts a first power demand that is lower than the second power demands which would be greater. Blish discloses the claimed device except for having differing load power demands rates. Hu discloses that it is known in the art to provide a having differing load power demands rates. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the an array of voltage regulators (220a-220n) connected in parallel of Blish with the provide a having differing load power demands rates of Hu, in order to provide a more diversified and power supply system capable of handling load and power demands of the circuit.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed 1-19-06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's terminology of "load power demand rate" is met by the prior art references. Applicant has failed to clarify how this term is different than that of the prior art. Applicant is reminded that this terminology can be interpreted as having differing power provide to the load. The claim language clearly states that the second power demand rate is greater than that of the first demand rate. This is clearly met by proving differing power to each of the respective loads. There is no distinguishing difference between applicant's claim language and that of the prior art.

Conclusion

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
